

Biography & Introduction for Dayle Laing

Dayle Laing, Bachelor Applied Science in Consumer Studies, Diploma Interior Design, LEED Accredited Professional, taught Interior Design at Sheridan College for 19 years and practiced design for two dozen years. She co-authored a paper with Walter F. Kean, MD, Professor in Medicine (Rheumatology), entitled "The Greening of Healthcare: Fabrics used in Health Care Facilities" which was published in the Journal of Green Building in the Fall 2011. The scientific poster and abstract were presented at an Inflammopharmacology Conference at Cambridge University in July, 2011. She presented this research at an EcoCare healthcare conference in London, Ontario in October, 2010. Three of her seminars are accredited by IDCEC for continuing education credits for Interior Designers across North America. Dayle was keynote speaker at Earth Matters Day at Sunnybrook Health Sciences Centre in 2011. She routinely presents and consults to corporations on sustainability messages for their staff and customers. www.daylelaing.com